Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 01 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Plenty of sunny spells Thursday, some showers overnight.

Today:
A dry and hazy or sunny start. Staying dry throughout the day, with the odd passing cloud, but plenty of blue skies. Feeling quite warm in the sunshine. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying quite sunny into the evening for most, but thicker cloud engulfing the region from the coast and the northeast. This cloud may bring patchy light rain overnight. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
A cloudy start but turning brighter throughout the day. A scattering of showers, some heavy, developing from the late morning onwards. Feeling warm in the sunshine away from any downpours. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Feeling muggy with a mix of sunny spells and widespread showers throughout this period. Risk of hail and thunder in some of the showers, likely to be heaviest on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.